

All third-party calls are made by the API tier; the browser never contacts a provider directly.